Creative Conversation
Stevenson Hall

Welcome
Stevenson Hall

Prof Jeff Sharkey
Principal, Royal Conservatoire of Scotland

On the Thursday evening we are delighted to be bringing together world renowned musicians, industry leaders and academics to discuss some of the key conference themes through conversation, debate and performance. This is an opportunity for a wider audience to engage with, and learn from, the visiting international academics and musicians.

We are delighted this session will be opened by Fiona Hyslop MSP, Cabinet Secretary for Culture, Tourism and External Affairs, The Scottish Government.

Facilitated by Prof Gary West, Presenter of Radio Scotland’s Pipeline, panel members include Ros Rigby OBE, Former Performance Programme Director of the Sage Gateshead and Co-Founder of Folkworks; Sven Ahlbäck, Professor of Folk Music, Royal College of Music, Stockholm and Head of Research & Development, DoReMIR Music; Mary Ann Kennedy, Musician and Broadcaster, Presenter, BBC Alba and co-owner, Watercolour Music and Dr Niall Keegan, Associate Director of the Irish World Academy of Music and Dance, University of Limerick.

National Piping Centre, 30-34 McPhater Street, Glasgow, G4 0HW. The venue is a two minute walk from the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland.

The National Piping Centre is a national and international centre of excellence for the instrument and its music. They offer world class bagpipe education, as well as a large event space ideal for celebrations and sharing music, and the Museum of Piping which features treasures of the piping world.

This Ceilidh will be an opportunity for delegates to perform and learn from each other’s disciplines and musical traditions.

Delegates will be offered a welcome drink and buffet supper. A cash bar will be available for the rest of the evening.

Ceilidh close
Music conservatories and academies routinely use various systems of assessment and feedback to evaluate students’ performance skills in the context of professional level studies. Assessment is usually thought to serve at least two purposes, the grading of the student and as a tool for learning. Often assessment happens after a performance has been given, either in a private situation for a jury only, or in a public concert. But how much does the student actually benefit from the feedback? What are we actually assessing? What do students understand and remember from feedback and does it really help them to develop? Do we know for sure if feedback after a (public) concert is actually useful for the student, or can it be even harmful? If we think that assessment feedback is necessary, when is it necessary and how should we deal with it?

Each workshop facilitated by a chair who leads with a series of questions and issues. These same chairs will lead the final discussion during the closing review session.

Conference Close and Delegates Depart

Thank you very much for joining us in Glasgow and participating in the Pedagogies, Practices and the Future of Folk Music in Higher Education Conference.

We hope you will be able to stay in Glasgow and experience some of what the city has to offer, as well as take part in the Celtic Connections Festival.

Full event listings can be found at www.celticconnections.com including for the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland Traditional Music Showcase taking place at the Glasgow Royal Concert Hall. Please note this event is not included as part of the delegate package.

Led by award-winning tutor Jenn Butterworth in association with RCS Artistic Director of Traditional Music Phil Cunningham, the students of the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland’s BMus Traditional Music course will perform an afternoon of newly composed and arranged music. The 40-strong cast of up and coming musicians will form a folk big band to showcase some of the great work created at the Conservatoire this year.
